For those who have not seen this movie:

Troy Bolton and Gabriella Montez are two totally different teenagers who meet while forced into singing karaoke on New Year's Eve at a ski resort party. One week later, due to her mother's job transfer they find that they attend the same high school. They quickly become good friends even given their different talents and interests. On a whim, they decide to audition for the winter musical. Fellow classmates are stymied by this new interest and try to keep things as business as usual. In the end they learn to unite and support all the talents that all classmates offer.

On the surface, this may seem like a movie for young teens. But truly with its incredible song and dance numbers and inspiring messages about overcoming limitations, stereotypes, and the joy found in unity, this is a movie for all ages.

There are many underlying spiritual messages in the movie. We will explore them with a game, matching songs to familiar citations from the Bible and the writings of Mary Baker Eddy.

The movie ends with, "We are all in this together," learning, growing, and shining with our special talents.

We invite everyone to add an inspiring message to the banner:
